Reviews:

“The altitude of the vineyards at Casa La Rad, located between 550 and 675 metres, is well suited to the production of white wines in the Rioja Oriental. Produced from lightly wooded Viura with 30% Chardonnay and Verdejo, this is leesy, well balanced and finely oaked with pear and citrus fruit flavours. 2020-23.”

“A well-poised white, showing some aromas of chamomile, loquat, light reduction and bread crust. Medium-to full-bodied with some handy depth and texture, as well as a fruit-driven finish. Drink now.” 90 points JamesSuckling.com; November 2019
